We would like to present you a new exciting method of self defense that can save your life, regardless of your age, gender, height, build or experience. This is Combat Self Defense System took the beginning of fierce Croatian Warriors ideas. Combat Self Defense is now applicable world wide through unique Combat Seminars Systems Company, led by Gordan Krajacic.

Note about Croatia. It is a beautiful Mediterranean Country, for many from Europe a tourist paradise. Until 1991, it was part of former Yugoslavia, and it gained its freedom and independence through bloody 4-year-war lasting from 1991 till 1995. Croatian people were attacked and forced to defend themselves. At mist of that war clashes arises something very good for all of mankind – namely a fierce Croatian System of Fighting –Croatian Combat Self Defense.

COMBAT SELF DEFENSE

Combat Self Defense is a system that was finally developed through last 20 years of research and real life experience of real street fights, real war missions, real bodyguard, bouncer work, real police work on the street, real Special Forces work and from need of real life self defense.

Combat Self Defense is a unique evolutionary burst of Martial Arts into the future. It is an evolution into the simpler, easier, more applicable and far better fighting – defending system than we have today in our various societies and countries. I would like to emphasize the word “better”, because Combat Self Defense literally turns every move someone make into a combat move - for defense or for attacks, dependable on the situation.

That means - defense against guns, rifles, knives, multiple attackers and so on - everything only with hands - but not with the regular boxing or martial arts punches - in Combat punching you will learn a new way of punching - you may call it - destruction punches - because you do not punch to box, or to deliver punches as in other Martial Arts, here every punch is made to destroy, damage, break, terminate; is delivered from any angle, to any surface, and is very devastating and disabling. This way of fighting can deeply broaden ones experiences. Now imagine that with your legs, joint locks, wrestling techniques, knives, sticks, guns and so on.

The most important thing in this method is: the time of learning is very short. No other Martial Art or teacher can teach you as fast as we do in the Combat Self Defense. It is so simple - it is based on what you know about moving your body, and than we transform your movements in to the combat movements. So, you do not learn any new technique - you already know them - you just put your body and most of your everyday movements into the combat.

Combat Self Defense & Other Martial Arts

In our opinion, all of the Martial Arts are great and good for self defense if they are practiced in a right way. The way of practicing is the most important. Combat Self Defense is technically not so aesthetic as other martial arts styles (Wu Shu, Kuk Sool, Thai Chi, Capoeira, etc.) The thing, in which Combat Systems are better than any other Martial Arts, is TIME - time needed to learn. This is your time - in just two days of practicing YOU CAN LEARN to defend yourself against anybody. So, time is crucial - because - you do not have 10, neither 3 nor 4 years to learn to defend yourself, and you will not learn to defend yourself even in 10 years if you do not practice in real self defense manner. Your time is also your money - and the shorter the time – the less money you spend. When someone needs to learn to defend oneself, it is usually too late at that moment, so you do not have time, and in Combat Self Defense, they can teach you in short time – what do you say, in about two days.

In relation to other Martial Arts, Combat Self Defense can be used as a helping tool, to cover things that you do not have in your Martial Art, or as a guide into the combat applications of your Martial Arts moves, or as an idea how to practice in real situations sometimes - especially if your Martial Arts are purely sports oriented. Basically, Combat Seminars Systems, Combat Self Defense can help any Martial Art practitioner to be better in self defense. For example, to learn wrestlers how to defend against knives, clubs, guns, rifles, or multiple attackers, by using their own knowledge and special expertise of Combat Self Defense Instructors in that areas. Combat Self Defense can be practiced today through a unique blend of Combat Seminars that are offered through Combat Seminars Systems. So, let's see, what exactly Combat Seminars Systems is?
