The North African Buffer Zone- Daniel Sharon, SSTS

SSTS-Sharon Security Technology Solutions - Daniel Sharon

Recent events that have occurred in the Middle East and the North African Muslim states have put world leadership to its test. If we look back in recent history, and the days of the Colonies before World War 2. Who was in control in all of the states that have recently been in turmoil where the local populations have turned against their government and have risen up in revolt against the various regimes?

The main colonial countries, The UK, France, Italy, and Spain. All of these dominated the North African States for many years. All of these countries then amounted to a combined force to be reckoned with. What has happened recently where most of the regime leaders have been deposed in one way or another, starting from Tunisia, Egypt, and Libya with other Middle East States such as Yemen, Bahrain and now Syria? All of the main influential states in the Arab League where riots and revolts took place acted in a way like a buffer zone between the very poor African States and Europe. Leaders such as Colonel Ghadafi prevented the mass influx of refugees into Europe who had been oppressed in their own countries by dictators and have been persecuted in the past.

If we look at the history of these countries such as Libya and Tunisia who were isolated in the past owing to their support of Global Terrorism, and were responsible directly and indirectly for terrible terrorist attacks in the past, renounced terrorism in order to get foreign investments, business developments, and opened their doors to tourism on a grand scale have found themselves locked in internal turmoil by the masses with atrocities on a mass scale. If we look at the Libyan government, and the rebels in what is happening there, we can also see when the dictatorship comes to an end, which it should do. What will be the alternative to leaders like Ghadafi, who is obviously mentally unbalanced but he has prevented a mass emigration of refugees passing through Libya to Europe?

What will this vacuum create? Italy is now part of the coalition, Norway, Denmark, Spain along with France the UK and the USA. There are countries that have not fought a war since World War 2 ended. The fact is that these countries will now also be targets of Islamic Sleeper Cells that have integrated with the refugees and workers that have fled the troubled countries. We will witness terrorism in countries that have enjoyed a peaceful existence for more than 60 years.

A lot of Europe will be affected by the turmoil ...
